Further extracts from the diary iseem to demonstrate that the policy of the administration on this matter of Cuba appears to have been adopted by the Republican party in the decisive vote in the House of Representatives on the pending resolution suggesting belligerent recognition, and the State Department was free to pursue its Alabama negotiations.

Senator Cameron, in the recent minority report of the Senate committee on foreign affairs, alluded to a rumor of a belligerency proclamation having been signed by President Grant. under consideration. It was now proposed to make a new class of excluded immigrants, viz., the totally ignorant. Two questions arose in connection with the bill; first as to the merits of this particular form of restriction, and second, as to the general policy of restricting immigration at all. It was found as a result of investigation that the illiteracy test would rear mest heavily upon the Italians, Russians, Poles, Hungarians, Greeks and Asiatics, and very lightly, or not at all upon English-speaking immigrants or Germans, Scanölravians and French.

"The races which would suffer most seriously by exclusion under the proposed bill," he said, "furnish the immigrants who do not go to the West or South, where immigration is needed, but will remain on the Atlantic seaboard, where immigration is not needed, and where their presence is most injurious and undesirable. The immigrants excluded by the illiteracy test are those who remain for the hiost part in congested masses in our great chies. They furnish a large proportion of population of the slums."

The question of the advisability of restricting immigration was a subject the Senator thought of the greatest magnitude and the most far-reaching importance. "If," he continued, "we have any regard for the welfare, the wages or the standard of life of American workingmen, we should take immediate steps to restrict foreign immigration. There is no danger, at present at all events, to our workingmen from the coming of skilled mechanics or of trained and educated men with a settled occupation or pursuit, for immigrants of this class will never seek to lower the American standard of life and wages. On the contrary, they desire the same standard for themselves. But there is an appalling danger to the American wage-earner from the flood of low, unskilled ignorant foreign labor which has poured into the country for some years past, and which not only takes lower wages, but accepts a standard of life and living so low that the American workingman can not complete with it.

No trouble from the authorities is anticipated, as the managers claim that they are going to race wholly within the letter of the Sellers law. There will be three meetings of fifteen days each on each of the tracks. These meetings will be thirty days apart, and this, those who are interested, say, will be all that the law requires. for monins secretly organizing the telegraph operators of the whole country into branches of the order. The work has been carled on under the gulse of forming beneficial organizations. Within the past few days the Western Union officials, through a leak in the Pittsburg branch, obtained information as to what was going on, and prompt measures have been taken to put a stop to it. It is the first attempt of any importance to organize the telegraph operators since the memorable strike of 1833. To prevent a repetition of those troublous times the telegraph companies are moving quickly and taking no chances. The news that they had been betrayed did not reach the operators until yesterday. It came when the men in the Western Union office in Pittsburg were asked in turn by Superintendent J. D. Flynn if they were members of the order. The men were forced to admit they were, and received a strong intimation that they had better get out of it at once.

The organization was the result of a carefully prepared plan on the part of Eugene V. Debs, who headed the great railroad strike, and other leaders of the American Railway Union. Their purpose, it is stated, is to organize and get control of every branch of business that could possibly be of assistance in the event of a strike, or any sort of a capital and labor struggle on a huge scale.

The last great movement on the part of the telegraph operators was in 1833. They were the members of the K. of L. They had been hestily gathered together, and were not in the best condition for a strike. One day the words "Grant is dead" flashed over the wires of the country. Every one of the faithful on hearing this signal, dropped his pen, deserted his key and walked out. Business was paralyzed. Companies were days and weeks behind in their business. Special trains were put on the railroads to carry telegrams. It was an upheaval in the business world. But in the end the men lost. They fell back into line and pounded the keys as of yore. Now comes the first great move since then for an o

The new rector of Christ church, the North Alabama street, at 11:15 o'clock Rev. A. J. Graham, preached to a large congregation yesterday. Before the zermon he told the congregation that he knew it was too sensible to suppose that he came to this city expecting to do great things at once. He took up the work with the hope that by the aid of the members of the parish it might be extended grad-ually and surely. He wished to emphasize the necessity of loyalty between the rector the necessity of loyalty between the rector and the church and the church and the rector. This relation of loyalty meant more than loyalty between father and children or between man and wife, because it comprehends and embraces all. The officials of the church, the vestrymen and wardens, are important factors in the life of the church, and they should make their offices more than sinecures; they heir offices more than sinecures; they should set an example. In conclusion he said: "I pray that no step will be taken in this parish in the future without the cancition of an all-wise God. With prayer and the right kind of effort we may hope to realize the highest hope of reproducing the living Christ in the lives of our men

THE REV. A. J. GRAHAM.

Mr. Graham was invited by the late Bishop Knickerbacker, then rector of the Gethsemane church, Minneapolis, to be his assistant in that parish.

Mr. Graham is an extempore speaker. His sermons are carefully planned and thought out, but never committed to paper. Socially Mr. (Graham is pronounced an agreeable gentleman. The range of his interests is wide. He has a capacity for hard work, and in selecting him Bishop White and the vestry of Christ church have had in mind the important administrative work necessary to be done in moving Christ church up town and making it the cathedral of the diocese. Mr. Graham's title from the beginning will be that of rector of Christ church and denn of the present (Grace) cathedral, in Seventh street. He will have power to appoint an assistant there until Christ church cathedral is built.

In speaking of Harrison, the Christian lawyer, he said: "What are the elements of popularity? Not such as General Harrison possesses. Those who know him best say that it is a grave mistake to call him a cold man. It is true he has not the hon homme; he is not a hall fellow well met; he is not preminent in club life; he is not a society man. No man would ever think of slapping Benjamin Harrison on the back. You can not think of him as full of good humor, able to tell a good story—he has none of that humorous quality that distinguished him whom we call 'Honest Old Abe.' What, then, is the cause of his greatness? I go back to that little home at North Bend, O., and find the secret there. General Wallace, in his life of Harrison, says that there was no show of splendor there—simply honest hearts and well-trained minds. There was a Christian mother. General Harrison tells us that at a certain time each evening his mother would lay aside her work, say good-night, and then go apart to pray." Mr. Carstensen told of General Harrison's life up to the time he went to Mismi University, Oxford, and during a revival joined the church of his mother. He said: "That was more than a profession of faith. A clean, honest, earnest life began then." The preacher spoke of Harrison settling in Indianapolis without friends, without capital, without influence. "He lived in a little three-room cottage in Vermont street, in which Mrs. Harrison did the housework." he said. "He cut the wood in the morning before he went to his office. He did his own chores. It was a simple, unpretending, almost idylic life."

"The Public Conscience."

The Rev. Dr. Sims preached at Meridian-street church yesterday on "The Public Conscience." He made a plea for upholding law and keeping of the Sabbath day holy. It is the day, he said, on which all should rest, and traffic of all kinds should cease. Against all attempts to break down the hedges which protect this day, regard for the tolling people call forth a most sacred protest. Dr. Sims also urged the Saturday half-holiday.

A Christian Sunday-school was organized yesterday at Twentieth street and Forest avenue, with a membership of ninety-six. J. Wiley Brown was elected superintendent; R. H. Myers, assistant superintendent; Mr. Knepper, secretary; G. H. Newman, assistant secretary; Mirs Bowman, treasurer; Miss Sandy, organist. After the Sunday-school meeting the Rev. A. L. Reports In Circulation Concerning General Harrison's Views of the Situation - The Congressional He Was a Pioneer Carriage Builder Nominations-Political News.

> Interest in State politics this week will center in the district conventions of the Republicans Thursday for the election of delegates to the St. Louis convention. In accordance with the call of the State committee these conventions will all be held on the same day. They are called for the purpose of electing delegates to the national conventions and for nothing else. In four districts-the First, Second, Fourth gists. $1. and the Twelfth-conventions to nominate candidates for Congress will be held at the same time and place as the district conventions for the election of delegates. Each congressional convention will be composed of a set of delegates distinct from that which make up the other con-vention in the district.

The district conventions will be held at the following places: First district, Evansyille; Second, Vincennes; Third, New Albany; Fourth, North Vernon; Fifth, Greencastle; Sixth, Connersville; Seventh, Indianapolis; Eighth, Bluffton; Ninth, Frankfort; Tenth, Lafayette; Eleventh, Huntington; Tweifth, Auburn; Thirteenth, Plymouth.

The Mckinley managers, after a fina he suffered a relapse, and was sick until last Saturday, when he was strong enough look over the State, are convinced that the twenty-six delegates which the thirteen districts will elect will be McKinley men. to resume his labors. He was out all dey Saturday and adjusted insurance losses for companies he had been working for. His wife has been at the point of death, and when the neighbors saw the crape on the door supposed that Mrs. districts will elect will be McKinley men. Of the forty-five men who would like to go to the convention from the districts, all but two or three are said to be committed to the Ohio candidate. In this district it is the understanding at this time that Harry S. New and Joseph E. Kealing will be the delegates. Mr. New has been inclined to favor Allison, but the McKinley men say he has nledged his word that it. Helfer had died during the night. All of the members of the Helfer household ex-cept Mr. Helfer were at the bedside of Mrs. Helfer, when the noise of labored men say he has pledged his word that if a majority of the delegates from the State favor McKinley he will vote with them. breathing was heard from Mr. Helfer's rcom. Going into the bedroom they found him lying on the bed greatly suffering in his endeavor to breathe. Dr. Lambert

In some way or other the leading Republicans here and perhaps throughout the State have been led to believe that General Harrison is not in sympa hy with the movement to give to McKinley the vote of the State. The report has gone out into the State that 'he General will be displeased beyond measure if the State should bind its delegates to stand by the Ohio candidate. The members of the party who are circula ing this story declare that the ex-President is not opposing the nomination of McKinley on personal grounds, but because he believes the party can do better; furthermore, it is said the General feels that Indiana, after having been honored in the national conventions of the party twice in succession, should go to this convention free to place its vote wherever seems best at the time. In some way or other the leading Rewas sent for, and although his home is close to the Helfer home the patient was dead before the doctor arrived. A return of the grip, together with heart disease, caused death.

State Republican Clubs. It is the intention of the league to look to the complete organization of the party in the State. It will work in conjunction with the State committee. Secretary Higgins says the State is already well organized, but it is proposed to extend the organization down to the townships, wherever possible. The Booker T. abuse and assault, by the officers of officer in charge of the train, while en route between the cities of Atlanta, Ga., and Indiamacolis, Ind., in the following manner, to-will.

"1. The conductor of the train did order her from the coach he found her occuying into the smoking-car attached to the train, accompanied with the remark, "That car is for darkies."

"2. Your committee finds that Mrs. Fox. after firmly, but respectfully, refusing to abdicate her rights in the premises, inasmuch as she had paid for, and held in her hand, the company's piedge and agreement to accord her a first-class passage, was subjected to harsh and authoritative language by the conductor of the train, and, at her continued refusal to enter the smoking, or 'darky car,' he grew very vehement and indignant in his manner, and suddenly stopped the train at an obscure crossing in a section of country to which the lady was an entire stranger, there being neither house nor station in sight, and at an hour between midnight and 1 o'clock in the morning.

"3. Your committee is further assured that Mrs. Fox, still refusing to give up her rights and submit to the indignities offered her, the conductor did 'take her baggage, constaining among other things, her purse, and did throw them from the train to the ground. Being by this action much wrought upon and alarmed, sie, as best she could in the dark, and as quickly as possible stepped from the train to regain her baggage, only to board the train again, to find the door leading into the first-class coach either locked or held against her entrance from the inside. The train pulling out on its journey, the lady for a great and powerful corporation, expressly stipulating to her a first-class coach either locked or held against her entrance from the platform, as though she were a vagrant filching her way, instead of a lady of respectability, character and accomplishment, having in her possession a printed and written pledge from a great and powerful corporation, expressly stipulating to her a first-c murderer, is a hat left benind which bears the initials "H. B." Owing to the peculiarity of the circumstances of the shooting and the strangeness of the assault, the police are mystified.
Four men were arrested and locked up on suspicion. They are Patrick B. McCafferty, a driver for the Continental Cafferty, a driver for the Continental laundry; R. A. Carmen, a clerk in a railway office; William Kelly, a stenographer in the employ of the Hamilton Brown Shoe Company, and James Cella, the tender in a saloon near the scene of the shooting. All these men were near by when the shooting took place. It was while they were going home from a saloon that an unknown man sprang from an alleyway, struck at Sharp and then shot him. After hearing all the men tell the story, Police Captain Body released Carmen and Cella, and held the other two for further investigation.

ORDER OF CHOSEN FRIENDS.

Two Meetings To Be Held In This

The executive committee of the Order of Chosen Friends of the United States will meet at the Bates House to-morrow. The members of this committee are: Howard H. Morse, of New York; W. G. Morris, of Chicago; L. A. Sleber, of St. Louis; William B. Wilson, Newark; N. J., and T. B. Linn, of this city.

Mr. Morris, who is a past supreme councillor, and is now the inspector for the order, got here to-day. He says the order is now on solid ground. On account of the recent change in the constitution, the order lost about five thousand members, most of them in Chicago, but the change, he says, has proved a wise one. The finances of the order, he says, were never in healthler condition.

The annual meeting of the Indiana branch of the order will begin here to-morrow.

As soon as the last decree cailing out the reserves of 1872 was rumored, the trains bound for the Austrian frontiers were packed with fugitives. The Italians are not an unmartial people, and the only reasonable explanation of this unpatriotic conduct must be in the angoquiarity of the war and the undefined dread of service in a little-known country far away from home. This amounts to dictating to the government its Egyptian policy, for it would be simply suicidal for Lord Salisbury to allow a split in the Cabinet over the Egyptian question at the present moment. Sir Charles Dilke does not hesitate to declare that the government has made a disastrous decision. They have been deceived about the situation in the Soudan. They have been led to believe that the forces of the Mahdi are divided by Internal dissension, and that it is now possible to conquer the Soudan without much trouble. This is said to be far more true by those whose information is most reliable. Another Soudan war would be exceedingly unpopular in England at the present day, but this will almost certainly result from the present expedition up the Nile. Moreover, it will be certain to add grave complications to the already critical situation in Europe.

The committee knew very well that Colonel Nelson was not an ordained minister, and were fearful he would preach a sermon, in order to have the laugh on them, and if he did so, the members of the church would find it out very soon, and they would be accused with having trifled with and assisted in deceiving the officers of the church, etc. When the hour for the services to begin had arrived the leader of the choir waited on Colonel Nelson and asked for a list of the hymns he desired they should sing. The Colonel replied: "I am heartily in favor of congregational singing, and would prefer that you sing some favorite hymns that everybody is familiar with," after which Colonel Nelson asked the church official who invited him to preach to make the opening prayer, which he did, when Colonel Nelson stepped on the small platform in front of the pulpit and said: "I propose to talk to you tonight about the religious customs of South America and Mexico," and he did so for nearly two hours, much to, the gratification of his audience. After the Colonel had returned to the hotel the boys' told the Colonel they were greatly relieved when he announced his subject, fearing he would preach a regular sermon, in order to get the laugh on them. A program of piano music, including compositions not often heard at recitals and demanding the highest powers of execution, was interpreted by Mrs. Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler at the Propylaeum on Saturday afternoon. The audience which heard her was composed largely of members of the Matinee Musicale, under whose auspices the recital was given, with enough others to fill the assembly hall comfortably. As a soloist, Mrs. Zeisler comfortably. As a soloist, Mrs. Zeisler has not, perhaps, an equal among artists of her instrument. Her touch is almost Oriental in warmth, and is richly productive of overlones. A strict musical taste prevents any tendency toward the florid, however. Why there should be such a combined effort to revive a law that has been regarded as obsolete for so many years is something that passes the ordinary understanding. But such seems to be the chief aim of a number of our best citizens. Why all this fuss should be made because a majority of the representatives of organized labor have passed resolutions favoring the playing of base-ball on Sunday, I do not know. But it surely has a tendency to lead members of our organization to believe that many good men are day, I do not know. But it surely has a tendency to lead members of our organization to believe that many good men are lending their sid unknowingly I hope to the making of favored classes in our city. We workingmen used to think that there was a law on the statutes of Indiana forbidding people engaged in business from fellowing their ordinary vocations on Sunday. The experience of my own organization in regard to the enforcement of law regulating the observance of Sunday after several conversations with the officers of the city under different administrations convinced us that such laws were regarded as obsolete and impracticable, therefore dead. We could obtain no enforcement of the law even when we were willing to furnish the names of the merchants who violated its provisions every Sunday. We were told that we must do our own detective work, must catch them in the act of selling goods, obtain the name of the purchaser, file affidavits against them and bring the purchaser as a prosecuting witness.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

As To Blue and Gray.

To the Editor of The Indianapolis News:
I wish to enter my protest against those who are abusing Commander Walker for the stand he has taken as to the blue and gray parade. Our commander, if a prisoner of war, feels that he can not heet those who starved and robbed him on an equal footing, and I can appreciate his feelings, for at the time he was crawling through the tunnel out of Libby I was scarce a mile away, suffering the pangs of cold and hunger almost unendurable on Belle Island, and shortly afterward shipped to that worst of hells on earth-Andersonville—where I was held over a year. Doubtiess Comrade Walker feels that if he should start to march in that parade and should recognize Dick Turner by his side, who robbed all prisoners as they marched into Libby building, see him dressed up in a suit of gray and honored on an equal with helpsaures of the day. I know that should I be there and recognize Sergeant Bush, who called the roll at Andersonville, who smashed a poor, sick boy in blue over the head with a clapboard, nearly killing him, because he had crowded one step lime, the sound and start of the roll at Andersonville, who smashed a poor, sick boy in blue over the head with a clapboard, nearly killing him, because he had crowded one step lime, the proposal strom metal and property of others. It was remarked at the office of the Board of Safety to-day that demoralization seemed to have struck the police force after a period of comparatively smooth sailing. One of the members of the board said that he had just begun bragging about the good conduct of the force. This forenoon five patrolmen were up on charges of conduct unbecoming officers. Mr. Morse, of the board, was absent. It was charged that B. R. Stevens, had played cards with women of bad character in a North Indianapolis saloon in the Michigan road. Testimony showed that patrolmen Stevens and Kitzmiller had gone to the place under general instructions to keep a watch on the women. Two women were stiting at a table in a room back of the bar, one of them playing against him: He recognized the gravity of the offense, but explained that their feet had become very wet, and they had gone into the place to dry themselves, and bead droused away in the warmth. They had not been there more than twenty minutes, he said, and the step of the sergeant awakened them immediately. The board retired to consider the case, and then announced that, in view of the fact that both men were up for the first time, and that both the sergeant and superintendent had spoken well of their general behavior, they would be fined thirty days' pay, instead of being dismissed from the force. Had either man had a previous charge against him, President McGuire said, he would have been dismissed.

Charles Ware and Charles Leubking were charged with drinking and acting in a boisterous manner with women and men in a house while on duty. Ware did not appear at the board's office, and as it was considered advisable to try both men at the same time, the trial was postpened to Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock.

A council of the Congregational church met this afternoon in the Odd Féllows Hall, in Virginia avenue, where the South Side Christian church has been meeting, o'clock.

The board consulted with Mayor Taggart on the complaint brought by Homer E. Steele, against Superintendent Colbert for refusing to serve a warrant. The mayor considered the superintendent secondary considered the superintendent secondary to the congregational church. The Rev. N. A. Hyde was moderator. Certificates as to education, Christian character and fitness of the Rev. Mr. Hicks were presented. Fred Zimmerman, clerk, read a hisstances, and no attention was paid to the complaint.

Dr. Thomas F. Courtney, the police surgeon, has recommended that the police force undergo gymnastic exercise for the betterment of their health and strength. The superintendent approved the idea. The Y. M. C. A. offered its gymnasium and raths at $400 at year for 110 patrolimen. The Independent Turnverein offered training under an instructor at $25 a month. The board laid the question on the table for further consideration. President Maguire felt that though the gymnastic training would be a good thing, the board would not be justified in asking for money for it at present.

In assuming the new relation, Mr. Hicks says there will be no change of church polity or faith, and that the autonomy of the congregation will remain unchanged. The present action is in the process of that evolution which began several months ago, when Mr. Hicks admitted unimmersed Christians to his congregation and announced that he would not make im-mersion a test of fellowship, although he would himself practice and preach immer-

"When I took this action," he says, "I hoped the Christian church would tolerate it. Many of the more liberal people in the church sympathized with my course, but local preachers like the Revs. Messrs. Lucas and Van Buskirk, and the church papers were unfriendly to my course. Some of them read me out of the church papers were unfriendly to my course, some of them read me out of the church of my first choice had I met with a friendly reception in my course. However, I found myself in harmony with the Congregational church and my congregation and I decided to unite with it on the basis of the Syracuse convention's proposition for Christian union, as follows:

"It seems to me there is not enough difference between the Christian and Congregational churches to prevent their coming together on such a basis as is proposed. The chief difference in practice is that the Christian church interprets baptism to mean immersion, while in the Congregational church any form of baptism is approved."

The Rev. George E. Hicks is thirty years old. He was born in Miami county, and educated at Butler College, from which he received the master's degree after post-graduate work under Professor Garvin.

The congregation of which he is the pastor was organized January 7, 1834. It resulted from a division in the Sixth Christian church. Its first meeting-house, at Cedar street and Fletcher-avenue, was abandoned because of a difference with the owner of the building, who thought Mr. Hicks was departing from the "faith of the fathers." After this action was taken, it was evident that the congregation must either stand alone or seek fellowship with some Christian body whose practices were in harmony with its declared principles. Congregational meetings were held, and February 2½ it was unanimously decided to ask fellowship with the Congregational churches."

To-night there will be installation services, at which the Rev. F. E. Dewhurst will deliver the charge to the pastor, and the Revs. J. H. Cram, of Terre Haute; R. J. Smith, of Kokomo, and A. H. Ball, of Anderson, will deliver addresses.

He and other ministers treated the affair in a friendly spirit and reciprocated a greeting sent by Mr. Hicks through one of the Christian pastors.

The catching department of the Indiana-polis ball club is now complete, and the "cranks" who have been worry'ng over this weakness in the club will have no this weakness in the club will have no further reason to complain. Yesterday morning Manager Watkins accepted the terms of Dick Buckley, late of the Philadelphia club, and he will report soon after the 1st of April. Buckley played here with the National League club in 1838 and '89, and has been for years one of the greatest catchers in the National League. He came to Indianapolis when the old Maroons were transferred to this city from St. Louis, and played here with Glasscock, Denny, Paul Hines, McGeachey, Seery, Cahill, Long John Hesley and Graves. He was sold by Indianapolis to New York, and later got into the orotherhood war. After that he returned to St. Louis for two years, and at the close of in the best of shape, and that his are was all right.

Manager Watkins now has probably the greatest trainer of young pitchers in the country. There are other catchers wha are just as able as Buckley to help out the candidates for box honors, but they will not do it. The veterans of the ball field are inclined to be very jealous of young players just coming up, and instead of giving them whatever assistance they can, they usually discourage their efforts. Buckley will find a large field here in Indianapolis in which to exercise his talents as a trainer. With Weimer, Monroe, Hansen and Dammann to work with, he should prove a most valuable adjunct to the club.

SUNDAY BASE-BALL.

The Subject Discussed By Ministers - Committee Appointed.

Instead of the regular meeting of the Methodist ministers this morning there was a called meeting in Meridian street church of all the ministers in the city to discuss the question of Sunday base-ball. About forty ministers were present. The Rev. D. R. VanBuskirk presided, the Rev. H. T. Black acted as secretary. The Rev. T. A. Goodwa thought that the conference merk merk to be confined to base-ball. ence ought not to be confined to base-ball, but ought to include all sorts of Sabbath desecration. The Rev. J. E. Pounds said: "We ought to call a mass meeting to get at the sentiment of the people. It seems to me that the question of Sunday baseball is a popular movement. The politicians think that there are more people in favor of it than are against it. If we want to influence the politicians we must have numbers. Votes count."

The Rev. J. A. Sargent rose to a question of privilege and said: "I hope we shall have no reporters present to—"
"Of course we want reporters," said the Rev. C. E. W. Dobbs, who was speaking.
"The more reporters the better," said Dr. Jenckes, and after him spoke a number of ministers, until it seemed that the Rev. Mr. Sargent's voice was the only one raised against the press. ber of ministers, until it seemed that the Rev. Mr. Sargent's voice was the only one raised against the press.

The Rev. C. E. W. Dobbs said that he was afraid that it was the present intention of the city officials to allow Sunday ball, and he thought the masses were in favor of it. He thought that if the question were put to the vote to-morrow, there would be a vote of two-thirds of the people in favor of Sunziay ball.

The Rev. G. A. Carstensen said that the workingmen must not think that the sympathies of the ministers of Indianapolis were against them. He thought that the ministers should go on record as favoring a half-holiday in the week for laboring men. Mr. Carstensen thought that Mr. Taggart would enforce the law. He suggested that a committee be appointed to wait upon Mayor Taggart and find out from him just what he proposed to do. He said: "I don't believe that Mr. Taggart will fly in the face of popular sentiment. He has aspirations above the place he now occupies, and he knows that he can not afford to antagonize the Epworth leagues, the Christian Endeavor societies and other Christian bodies, who are trying to protect the Sabbath."

A number of other ministers talked to the same point, and the meeting resulted in the appointment of the following committee: The Revs. J. A. Rondthaler, D. L. McKenzie, J. E. Pounds, C. E. W. Dobbs, Thomas Brown, D. Roberts and G. A. Carstensen. The committee was instructed to call upon the mayor, the sheriff and other officials, and report to a meeting, to be held in the same place next Monday morning. The so-ciety is the outgrowth of the interdenom-inational work that has been conducted in Lincoln Park for three years. During this period the people interested in the work have conducted one of the most prosperous Sunday-schools in the northern part of the city and have erected a modest church building. The Rev. E. BULLET DID NOT WOUND ADAM BUT PIERCED HIS CLOTHES.

County Commissioners Did Not Find This Out Until a Day or Two After the Shooting - The Conflicting Stories.

Notwithstanding the admonition of Com Notwithstanding the admonition of Com-missioner Greer to Assistant Superintend-ent Schooly, of the work-house, that he had talked too much in regard to the shooting of Charles Adams by guard Gra-ham, at the work-house, last Friday, the assistant superintendent continued to talk concerning the affair this morning. He said:

"After guard Graham fired the shot, Adams claimed that he had been hit by the bullet. I telephoned at once for Dr. Eastman. He made an examination of Adams, and said that he had not been struck by the bullet. There were two holes in his trousers, but the flesh was not touched. After Dr. Eastman had examined Adams the letter said he was amined Adams, the latter said he was sick. Dr. Eastman then made an exami-nation, and told him that he was simply hamming, and that there was nothin the matter with him. I then ordered Adams to the stone pile, and he worked until after 11 o'clock, when the prisoners came into dinner. "At 12 o'clock Commissioner Harding

I was just going to dinner, and asked him to join me, but he declined. After I had finished my dinner, and while Commissioner Harding was still eating, I took the reporter to the cell-house to see Adams. It was my intention to have Adams take off his trousers and show the reporter that he had not been hit by the bullet. He is a treacherous prisoner, and I feared that he would try to make the reporter believe that he had been hurt. Adams, however, in the presence, told the reporter that he had not been hit by the bullet, and I thought that was sufficient. "Now, in regard to guard Graham, I The reporter asked to see Adams.

He could have killed him easily if he had wanted to, but he simply wanted to shoot close enough to frighten the man and make him submit." his way to Knightstown. He had seen Adams at that time, and had been told just what the physician had said. He could not understand why the commissioners had not told the reporter on Saturday that Adams had not been touched by the bullet.

"The fact remains, however," said Schooley, "that he was not hit, and if you will send a reporter out to the work-house I will have Adams brought to my office and stripped, so he can see for himself. I asked him where the builet had hit Adams, and he replied that it had not hurt him; it had only made a slight flesh wound in the leg. He said that Graham at first intended to shoot Adams through the heart, but changed his mind and 'winged him.' When Adams was brought out of the line, he talked in the presence of Assistant Superintendent Schooley and myself. Schooley pointed out in the trousers worn by Adams the two bullet holes, one where the bullet had gone in and the other where it came out. In Schooley's presence, I asked Adams how badly he was hurt, and he replied that it was only as scratch. I did not see the wound. Whether the bullet wounded Adams or not, it is certainly true that Schooley told Commissioner Harding and myself that Adams was wounded, and he evidently believed it then himself."

Snyder, 24 years, 50s Union, con-Secretary Bicknell, of the State Board of Charities, was asked if the board had taken any action looking to an investigation of the shooting. He said he had seen the published accounts of the affair. It had not been determined what, if anything, the board would do. He was asked if it was common in penal institutions for guards to carry firearms. He said that the guards in the indiana prisons are not permitted to carry firearms, and that only the guards on the walls are so armed. The reasons for this are that the prisoners may not be able to procure firearms with which to shoot down the wall guards after overpowering the inside guards; and that rash guards may not be tempted to use the arms on prisoners. JOHN AND ELEANOR MOULDER. NONOGETARIANS.

Recently They Celebrated Their Sixty-Ninth Wedding Anniversary, and They Are Still Active and Are Enjoying Life.

Special to The Indianapolis News. Kokomo, Ind., March 18.—John and Eleanor Moulder, of Russiaville, this county, celebrated their sixty-ninth wedding anniversary the past week, the husband being ninety-one years old, the wife ninety. They are the parents of O. L. Moulder, formerly clerk of this county, and the grandparents of Dr. J. McLean Moulder, of this city. Mr. Moulder is not only the oldest resident of this part of the State, but was one of the commissioners appointed by the Governor to create the counties of Howard and Tipton, establish the boundaries and locate the county seats.

John Moulder was born in Orange cour ty, North Carolina, March 2, 1805. His wife, Eleanor Maris, daughter of a neighbor, living near by, was born February 18, 1806. In 1816 a colony of North Carolinians went West, taking their possessions in four-horse wagons across country and over the mountains, the live stock following in a herd, driven by the children. The Moulder and Maris families were among the pilgrims, and little "Johnny" Moulder and "Nellie" Maris, eleven and ten years old respectively, helped keep the cattle, sheep and hogs in line during that long and perilous journey. The barefoot John and Nellie formed an attachment, and the flame kindled in their young hearts is still burning brightly, having endured for nearly a century. They were married February 1, 1827.

The colony settled in Orange county, In-

The colony settled in Orange county, Indiana, near where Paoli now stands. The Moulder and Maris families erected rude log cabins and began the task of carving fine, large farms out of the wilderness. They had little to do with, much of their live stock and goods having been lost in of our goods were sold on redit, and it was hard times collecting. We lost considerable with the "wild-cat" bank money with which the country was then flooded. In 1843 I sold out and came to Howard county, building a cabin on the land I bought, moving in February, 1844. As one of the locating commissioners appointed by the Governor to survey and establish the county lines and law seat, I laid out the town of Kokomo on forty acres donated by David Foster, who also built a hewed log court-house twenty-four feet square."

maiden who made such a good showing for the institution, has endeared herself to faculty and students alike, and they are doing everything in their power to show their appreciation of her effort. On Saturday when the students arrived home from Indianapolis, Miss Simmons was escorted to the college in a coach, which was profusely decorated with college colors. Saturday evening in the parlors of the college, a reception was tendered to the lege, a reception was tendered to the young girl, and hundreds of citizens were in attendance.

Editor News:

Dear Sir—I wish to add my hearty indorsement to the letters you have been publishing of cures produced from pills made by Julius A. Haag, the Denison House druggist. I had been suffering for years with indigestion, constipation and sick headache, until last summer, when I began to use Haag's Liver Pills, receiving almost instant relief, continuing their use for six weeks, one pill each night, I was completely cured. Many of my friends have been induced by me to try these pills, and all speak in glowing terms of praise of the happy results produced by their use. Traveling constantly, I spread the good news in every town through which business calls me. Very respectfully yours. P. F. WARNER, United States Postal Clerk on line between Pittsburg and St. Louis.
